

The COMPASS School is a private special education day school that serves elementary, middle, and high school students from ages 6-22. The COMPASS School works with students with a wide range of emotional, behavioral and learning disabilities. The students are referred from 15 different public school districts in the Boston area. For our students, school has been a struggle and has not been a consistent, positive experience. Our committed staff help to change the school experience for our students and help them to engage in their education.

Students at the COMPASS School can expect to receive the following on a daily basis: academic support, clinical services, social/emotional support, daily points system, skills groups and classes, physical education classes at the Kroc Center, visual arts classes, transition classes and job readiness skills.

Keys to Our Educational Approach

- Develop outstanding educational, vocational, and support services
- Collaborate with other organizations to increase the resources available to each individual and his/her family.
- A diverse staff whose competence, compassion, and commitment are evident in our client-centered approach and interdisciplinary teamwork.
- Employ a range of teaching methods centered on students' distinctive learning styles.
- Provide challenging, individualized curriculum and instruction that addresses the academic, behavioral and emotional needs of our students.

Comprehensive School Support Services

The COMPASS School includes a range of support services that include wrap-around mental health, social, medical, legal, and vocational services. With our history of achievement as educational providers, COMPASS has the resources to ensure the appropriate educational, pre-vocational, clinical, and advocacy services for students in need of our services.
